Chapter 1 by Gyro

Dear, twinkle feather

I only yesterday found out mythical creatures were real and know all of them want to kill me because I accidentally killed a harpy. Please help.

Chapter 2 by kingstone

Dear Gemma,

We've been watching over you ever since you were a little toddler (you knew that didn't you) and it is clear that evil does not dwell in your heart. I'm sure the accident was not your fault.

Nonetheless, the death of Harry Harponson has stirred quite a rabble among the Council of Fairies. Not sure if I can get you off the hook on this one.. I'll have a talk with the Grand Imp and ask him for advice.

Yours,

Twinkle Feather

Chapter 3 by Guy Bird

Dear Twinkle Feather,

You've been watching me? How? I stay in my room most of the time. Do you look in through the windows? Are you sure that you're not breaking the law?

That aside, it feels good to hear that I'm not evil. Although I might be crazy. After all, I'm writing letters to a fairy who is talking about imps and fairy councils. And that (probably imaginary) harpy was quite mad, so I slapped him - to defend myself, mind you - and he just turned into smoke and vanished! Who is the Grand Imp? He sounds important.

I'm so sorry about all of my questions, but I'm just so confused!

Yours truly,

Gemma

P.S. The cans in the backyard weren't mine. We have strange neighbors.

Chapter 4 by Bristol Fales-Hill

Dear Gemma,

Your curiosity is understandable. This information is much to take in at your age. I hope you understand that you are too young to know some things and too old to believe in others.

That being said, the harpy you encountered is one of many creatures you should be prepared for, the Grand Imp has predicted an unbalance in our world and it seems it applies to yours as well!

To answer some of your questions, the fairy world is all around you, some mortals are just too doubtful to see it. I hope you understand, I cannot say anymore for fear this letter ends up in the wrong hands.

We will meet soon and hopefully under good circumstances.

Yours truly,

Twinkle Feather

P.S. Could you give me some more information about these curious neighbors of yours?

Chapter 5 by Dale McKee

Dear Twinkle Feather

Umm...imbalance, one of many creatures?? Exactly what are you saying? Am I in danger? What about my family, are they in danger as well?

You are really starting to frighten me.

As for the neighbors, I can't say too much, their just weird you know, like they play music day and night, real loud too, and its not really the kind of music you want to listen to, it's folk music, ballads, and a lot of Johnny Cash. The cans in the backyard are a wild mix of Pork n Beans, Cranberry Sauce and Sardines (yuk).

Please help, this is really starting to freak me out.

Yours truly

Gemma

P.S. - Oh yeah, and every night the neighbors build a wall of lava lamps along side of the house.

Chapter 6 by Ryan Oakes

Dear Gemma,

I am sorry for the long delay in this reply. Since your last letter, I have informed the Fairy Council and the Grand Imp about your case. It is still under heavy investigation, but it is safe to say that you are innocent. Your neighbors on the other hand.. are not. It seems that they are part of a secret organization, called the Wakening, They are committed to uncovering the fairy world. While they present no danger to your family at this time, there are some precautionary measures to be taken.

You will need the following supplies:

1. A fairy house, you can build a house for a queen.
2. A notebook.
3. Seven different types of...
4. A wooden spoon.

Do not worry. If you have these things by next Wednesday, everything will be alright. I promise to write to you before that day to explain more about how we are going to protect you.

Thank you for your patience,
Twinkle Feather

P.S. Convince your parents to buy a dog or a cat. They will prevent further invasions of harpies into your home.
